THE GAUGE QUESTION ALLYE. Col. Buford.-The quiet which had settled around the outrageous assault upon the dignity and rights of the State was somewhat rudely disturbed on Thursday, by the arrest of Col. A. S. Buford, President, and W. H. Green, Master of Transportation, at the instance of one Scott. The arrest was made at Greensboro, and the parties arrested were liberated by entering into a bond of $5,000 each. The question is to be tried on Saturday afternoon at 5 P. M. in Charlotte. The following is a dispatch addressed to His Excellency, Gov. Brogden:

"CHARLOTTE, May 28th, 175.

The Govenor is not going to be content with the arrest. He will push the matter to the extent of his legal limits. He is determined that he sovereignty of North Carolina shall be respected. He will employ additional counsel in aid of the solictor, and will follow the case through all its stage of appeal to its final de-

NOBTH CAROLINA LIFE INSUR-ANCE CO. We publish to day the statement of this company now in the third year of its existence. The exhibit is gratifying to its friends and exceedingly flattering to the business capacity and integrity to those having its affairs in charge, and a North Carolina institution, it enlisted the interests of the first men in the State, and attracted the confidence of capitalists. If success was assured by the wise selection of its directory and of its officers, the high hopes formed in the infancy of the enterprise have been more than confirmed by the favor which has every where been extended to it. It has proved itself a benefactor to the country, for it has freely and liberally used its surplus funds for the accommodation of the people of the State that gave it existence, and it has been the friend of enterprises which would have languished or failed without its aid. It is now eminently prosperous uncer. J. H. Cameron, Esq., whose peculiar adaptation to this work has been shown by the prosperity which attaches to every institution of the kind with which he has been connected. PROBLEMENT LEWIS

THE SPIRIT OF THE AGE AND THE GOOD TEMPLARS.—The Spirit of the Age, the organ of the order of Good Templars in North Carolina, in a bitter attack upon the NEWs because of our late comments upon the conduct of one Miss Armstrong, states that the NEWS has been opposed to the Good Templars since their organizazation in this State. In asserting this the writer makes a knowingly false statement, in order to array the members of this order in the State against us because we have seen fit to honor and virtue. We have always mankind, or that seek to stay the many evils that stalk broadcast throughout our land; but in furthering these laudable objects we shall not be led by any party or parties who use these orders only to further their own personal ends, even at the sacrifice of principle and the degradation of those with whom they are unfortunately associated. We can assure the Good Templars, and the Friends of Temperance in North Carolina, who have really at heart the objects of their orders, that they will always find an ardent supporter in the News; but we can also assure the Editor of the Spirit of the Age, and those who think with him, that the News will at the same time be ready to assail any and every innovation, from any and every source, upon the purity and integrity of Southern

GEN. COX AT CHARLOTTE.-We make the following extracts from the speech of Gen. Cox, delivered in the public square at Charlotte on the night of the 20th. It is full of that lofty spirit of patriotism which places country above section, and is a true reflection of that sentiment which pervades the whole people of the assail an innovation upon a principle South—an carnest wish to return held dear by every lover of Southern to the folds of the Union, but with as earnest devotion to the Constitution, been friendly to every order looking and stern purpose to overthrow that to the redemption of fallen party which has controlled the government and made hearty union im-

No matter how the physiclans may talk, women always have compressed their waists, and they compressed their waists, and they always will until public opinion pronounces for the heavy figure. It never influenced a woman yet to hear that Venus de Medici had a large waist—sine has been told so ever since that faultless image of female beauty was disinterred. She merely shrugs her shoulders and draws her shrugs her shoulders and draws shrugs her shoulders and draws her laces tighter. She knows that if she went to a ball with that figure of the Venus no man would ask her to dance. So important a matter is it to have a small waist, that it has become a matter of pride to the Austrian people, and is often mentioned in the court journals that the empress of Austria is celebrated for possessing a waist which only measured sixten inches. There are ures sixteen inches. There are many persons who have as small a waist, but they have not the height and contour, and becoming fullness which the Empress has.

Nor is the "small maint force." Nor is the "small waist furore" alone confined to the women of civilized lands, so called. The small foot of the Chinese woman is a local peculiarity; the small waist, or the striving for it, is universal. Even grave Humboldt describes the beauties of Java as eating a sort of clay called ampo, by which they become very much reduced in size. It kills them finally, but what of that?

Who makes fashions? and why

who makes fashions? and why does it last? Why does it change? Caricature and contempt fall upon it like sunbeams on a stone wall, when lo! we wake in the morning and find fashion is changed! no ture and sale of "Bull" Durham smoking and plug tobaccos by this popular firm will surprise many of our well informed readers.

We learn that in one week's shipment a few weeks since, they were taxed to the amount of $68,000 for revenue stamps, being the taxation that fashion is changed! no one knows how or wherefore. History of fashious tells us at one time that dresses were short waisted; corselless, and classic, and for about the years-corrects were unknown. The results were disastrous spinal diseases became very frequent, and stooping figures and uneven shoulders prefigures and uneven shoulders prefigures.

the corset was thought to have a bad effect on health, consequently the corset was resumed, and probably will always be worn.

Physicians agree, however, that the corset of the present day is highly injurious to the health; the extreme tightening of the stay conducing greatly to consumption and hip disease. A reform in this sespect is improbable, till loose garments are "in fashion."

The Shah of Persia has profited nothing by his visit to Europe, so far as economy and civilization are concerned. He has just been marrying his daughter, and the affair has cost him $60,000. He has also been reorganizing his army, and has borrowed $48,000 to do it. He is also going in largely for the purchase of arms. Lately he has received a ghastly present—2,500 human heads cut from Turkomans. In this matter some economy was practised, for, in order to save the cost of transport the skulls were cut out, and oluy the tanned skins were sent. The Monroe (La.) Telegraph says: William Dempsey, a native of Ireland, aged about 28 years, who has been recently employed in repairing levees, presents to-day the most extraordinary instance of self-punishment on record. He is hopelessly blind, and the affliction is the work of his own hands. Dempsey was in blind, and the affliction is the work of his own hands. Dempsey was in Monroe last week, after having completed his job on the levee, an indulged freely in drink. He left town Saturday or Sunday, and strayed off into the woods. He was found in rear of Judge Baker's place, on Wednesday, with both eyes out. Dempsey tells us that he thought there was a punishment denianded of him for his sins—that there was a straggle for his soul and it was required of him to destroy his eyes, as a penance for his sins. Au examination by Drs. Murphy and Aby shows that while the eye balls are not torn out both are badly crushed and the sense of sight totally destroyed.

The experiments made in London, in which either oil or glycerine is made to perform the functions of steam by the same means—the application of heat—have excited no small interest. The heat expands the oil placed in small cylinders, and from it, it is claimed, a pressure of ten thousand pounds per square inch may be obtained without danger of steam explosions, which latter prevent the use of a pressure of more than two hundred pounds to the square inch generally. In this instance, it is asserted, an explosion would only crack the cylinder containing the oil. The application of this process appears, from the accounts published, to have been successfully made to the printing pressure of uses of which it is susceptible will be found very great.

Mr. WM. M. CARTER, of Hyde, has been nominated as a candidate for the Convention from that reliable county. Hyde could scarcely have done better, for in character and capacity, Mr. Carter has everything to make him a most appropriate selection. He was a member of the Legislature of 1873-'4, and proved himself a most able and useful member. He is a brother of the Hon. D. M. Carter of this city.

THE readers of the News are waiting the explanation of the charge made by "Patron" last week, that the editor of the Sentinel made the proposition to Mr. Atwater, nominee for the House of Representatives for the county of Orange last year, to buy him off with the promise of the per diem if the editor of the Sentinel was permitted to take Mr. Atwater's place.

Let the reader hear. It is not too old to have been forgotten.

We did not intend to tread upon the toes of Virginia's dignity by associating the name of Ex-Gov. Walker with those of the prominent Republicans present at the Charlotte Centennial. We are not ignorant of Gov. Walker's antecedents, as the Index and Appeal would intimate, and if that journal more ready to do full justice to that distinguished gentleman, whom Virginia has recognized and honored as a true Conservative. We were led, we suppose, into the use of his name in such unfortunate connection by the fact that he was a Northern man, retaining all his sensibilities to an expanded loyalty, and quite as likely to feel himself compromised by his association with treason as the most blatant repre sentative of the Republican party.

SHERMAN'S BOOK.

We have not seen it, and we have only information of it from the comments of the Northern Press, and the criticisms of correspondents. It is certain that Sherman has stirred up a hornet's nest and the angry swarm is buzzing about his head with furious anger. The general impression is that Sherman has recklessly with his own hands torn down the fragile fabric of glory which the applause of his compatriots erected upon the foundation of his brilliant march to the sea. That appears really to have been the only foundation for the edifice which at length became too small for the egotism and vanity of the occupant He was not satisfied with the share of glory ascribed to him. He must needs strip all others of their laurels, and now the exasperated crowd fly upon him like the daws in the table and will soon strip him of all his borrowed plumage.

They are not only belittling his merits as a general, but denying him the ordinary attribute of the commonest soldier-courage. Montgomery Kair charges him with, and proves, timidity. A correspondent of the Cincinnati Gazette, an army officer, does the same in more explicit terms. The people were blinded by the glare of glory that surrounded that march to the sea." They looked only upon the apparently daring deed of a general in a hostile country, far away from his base of supplies, surrounded by enemies, cutting loose from every connection, and plunging boldly into unknown dangers, and undefined obstacles. But it was forgotten that Sherman never had any force to oppose him but the right understanding of rights and hattered remnants of the militia of Georgia; and that, outside of relations.

the obstacles interposed by nature, his march was a holiday excursion, brilliant with all the panoply of war, and almost as free from danger as a dress parade.

The people of Georgia and the Carolinas only remember the ruin that marked his path, and remember him with mixed hate and terror. But they never called him craven. It was left for his own friends to do

Hear what Montgomery Blair

"I recall two other signal occasions when the force under my brother's command failed to secure the fruits of well-fought fields by reason of Sherman's timidity. One was at Chattanooga. Having crossed the river and beaten the enemy in front of them, the Fifteenth corps was in a position to intercept Bragg's army in full retreat before Grant, but Sher-man ordered the corps to be withdrawn and let Bragg escape. Again, at Bentonville, where, while Johnston was attempting and failed to crush Slocum, my brother's corps. by rapid marching in the direction of the firing, was enabled to get into his rear, so as to have effectually cut of his retreat, the division commanded by Mower being actually in the camp which Johnston had left to attac Slocum, he was obliged by Sherman's order to withdraw and let Johnston escape. Hardee was also allowed to escape out of Savannah. How does it happen that, while commanding the fluest army that ever took the field. Sherman never captured enemy? The explanation of this in-variable failure is found in his constitutional timidity. This enabled Sydney Johnston, at the head of twenty-five thousand men in Kentucky, to fill him with panic at the head of seventy-five thousand, and Price to stampede him when relieved and transferred to Missouri. The truth is that he never did anything until he came under Grant's im-mediate command and had his nerves steadied by Grant's pluck.

YOUNG MEN'S CHRISTIAN AS-SOCIATION.

The presence of the representatives of this body at this time in the city of Richmond has almost for the first time demonstrated to the South the imposing proportions of the order. We have heard of it, we have read of it, in fact we have had it in our midst, but so quiet, so unobtrusive, so unostentatious in its operations, that it glided along in a concealed existence, only making its presence known by its blessed deeds of charity, and the fruits of comfort to the distressed which sprung up in its silent but beneficent course. It is "christian" in the true sense. It makes no proclamation of its deeds, it acts so that the left hand knoweth not what the right hand

The presence of such an order in any community seems almost the assurance of Divine favor to it. It is carrying out practically the precepts of a religion of love and charity. It works in no field of theory or abstraction, but gives demonstraion of earnest practical purpose. It recognizes the fact "the poor ye have always with you," and it goes to work to find them out, and as far as possible, to equalize the gifts of fortune, and aims at least to drive the gaunt shadow of want from the door of the hapless sufferer.

Every community should feel that in giving countenance to such an order it is countenancing its Guardian Angel. It should strengthen the hands and uphold the arms of those few, who detaching themselves from the pleasures and trivial pursuits of life, give themselves up to the charge of humanity, and the relief of human suffering.

THE " UNION."

Some weeks ago, the harmony of the News office was disturbed by disagreement with its compositors. members of the Typographical Union. The difficulty was settled by a declaration of independence on the part of the News, and the employment of what are technically and contemptuously called rats. The office is well content to endure the contempt in the success of its movement.

Since then, the Herald and News of Atlanta, the Chronicle of Washngton, and the Index-Appeal of Petersburg, have all fallen into the same trouble, and found the same solution. The Courier-Journal of Louisville, the Appeal of Memphis, and the Tribune of Chicago, some time since reached the same results.

The error in the Union seems to be that while its objects are commendable in promoting a feeling of brotherhood and mutual dependence, its apparent influence over the craft had made it unvielding, unbending and tyrannical, restraining not only its members with iron will, but dictating to and controlling employers, until the natural position of things was about to be reversed, and capital mercilessly put at the foot of labor. Labor has its rights, should be respected and protected, but it has no claim to absolute control, and this seemed to be the ultimate aim of the Union. Like every other difficulty of the kind, time and reflection, and mutual concessions will bring about a

We clip the following from Gen. Sherman's book, which will have an interest to many of our readers. It relates to the interview with Ger.
Johnston after information of the assessmention of Lincoln. Our home readers will now realize the fearful danger impending over Raleigh from the frenzy of a maddened soldiery :

"As soon as we were alone together, I showed him the diapatch announcing Mr. Lincoln's assassination, and watched him closely. The prespiration came out in large drops on his forehead, and he did not attempt to conceal lils distress. H denounced the act as a disgrace to the age, and hoped I did not charge it to the Confederate Government. I told him I could not believe that he or General Lee or the officers of the Confederate army could possibly be privy to acts of assassination; but I would not say as much for Jeff. Davis. George Sanders, and men of that stripe. We talked about the effect of this act on the country at large and on the armies, and he realized that it on the armies, and he realized that it made my situation extremely delicate. I explained to him that I had not yet revealed the news to my own personal staff or to the army, and that I dreaded the effect when made known at Raleigh. Mr. Lincoln was peculiarly endeared to the soldiers, and I feared that some foolish woman or man in Raleigh might say something that would madden our men, and that a fate worse than that of Columbia would befall the place." For the Daily News.

The Gauge Question Again. The DAILY NEWS of May 28th, it the dialogue between the President of a Railroad company and his attor-ney, presents the following pas-

"Attorney: The power of the State to regulate internal commerce is con-ceded; but it by no means follows that the State may therefore regulate gauges with a view to promote the commercial interests of the State. To commercial interests of the state. To promote commerce is one thing; to regulate it is another, Railroads are built to promote commerce: and in-spection laws are enacted to regulate it. Congress is invested with full power to regulate foreign commerce; but this grant does not confer on Congress power to promote commerce. See Story on Cons. SS. 1075 and 1089."

COMMENTS ON THE ABOVE. The power to regulate commerce neludes the power to regulate the vehicle or means by which commerce is carried on; and therefore the pow-er includes the regulation of naviga-

The mind can scarcely conceive a system for regulating commerce which shall exclude the laws concerning the means of its transporta-tion.—Story Cons. SS. 1061. The powers granted to the United States "to regulate commerce" is granted for the purpose of promoting commerce. The power to regulate commerce includes the power to promote it;—the latter is dependent on the former. Story SS, 1056—7-8 et sig. Regulation is the root, and pro-motion is the growing branch of the CONTINUATION OF DIALOGUE.

"Attorney: The matt r of gauge may have an important bearing on internal commerce in allowing the passage of through cars over connecting lines.

President: That is true, provided the companies are willing to let other cars than their own run over their respective roads. But this is a mat-ter beyond the control of the State, nies having the same gauge may agree to promote commerce—but the State cannot require them to make the agreement. That is a matter of tions, and without their concurrence the State might regulate the gauges till eternity without promoting comight to run its cars over the road another. It can be done only by permission of the owner of the road Attorney: That being so, and undenstedly it is so, the conditions that might under the exercise of the power be admissible, do not exist. The principle asserted is, that to promote commerce, "the State may regulate gauges : but regulating gauges will not promote commerce. There is not promote commerce. There is nothing in the principle. It is delusive. It has no foundation in law. It would be a vain thing to contend

It would be a vain thing to contend that the State has power to do a certain thing because thereby commerce may be promoted, when in fact, no such result can happen as a matter of course. I have heard the argument and considered it.

Auditor: It is conceded, that if there were a dozen different Railroad companies in the State, "having the companies in the state, "having the same guages, they may agree to promote commerce," and can do so, by running their cars over the road of each other, as they now do. But if their gauges were all different, then they could not promote commerce by this means, because they could not so run their cars. It is now seen and by long agreements. so run their cars. It is now seen and by long experience has become an established fact, that whenever the cars can thus run over several roads, they will be allowed so to run, and that the commerce of the State is thereby greatly promoted. But where the gauges are of different widths the cars cannot thus run, and therefore this means of promoting internal commerce is lost to the State. From experience it is evident therefore, that it would not be lost, but for the permission of different gauges; and therefore, if the State would promote its own commercial prosperity, different gauges should not be allowed. By the concession of Mr. Attorney the same gauge in Railroads might and usually does promote internal commerce, while gauges of different widths could sot. The entire matter in a natshell:

The attempt, then, prematurely to force upon the mind of a child a knowledge of sciencies, which require maturity of mental powers to appreciate, is worse than folly. The manufacture of percussion powder is one of the most dangerous occupations in the world. It is usually made in some isolated building, removed a good distance from all other buildings. Recently John Donahue, employed to make this powder for Winchester Arms Company in New Haven, was blown into shreds. In a week or two there were ten applicants for his place.

A BRAIN DESTROYING MALADY.—That insomin a, or inability to sleep, has become very prevalent of late years, is sufficiently evidenced by the fact that numberless remedies have been introduced within the last decade specially intended for its cure, and that new sedatives are continually cropping up. But no medicinal agent has so widely and clearly established its claims as a genuine soportific as Hostetter's Stemach Bitters. That it removes this brain destroying inability far more effectually than the bromides, chlorals and valerianates in use, is not to be wondered at when we consides that such drugs act only on the brain, which is not the source of the evil, while the Bitters rectify the alimentary disturbances which originate it. It is admitted by physicians that dyspeptia and non-assimilation of the foxi produce sleep lessness. The Bitters overcome these obstacles to repose as well as those urinary trounies which are also said to interfere with it. A wineglass or two of this wholesom sedative invigorant at bed time rarely falls to induce tranquil repose.

OFFICIAL REPORT The following is the sworn report of sales of Sewing Machines made by the leading Companies for 1874. An examination of the figures below will show that the "Singer has largely increased its sales, while the other companies have failen off.

The Singer has shown a large increase in sales every year as the statement below for the fast four years will prove.

In 1871 the Singer sold 52,784 more makines than their highest competitor.

Making the total sum of 875,137 machine which was; $6,545 more than their highest competitor. This wet proves the greaten perfority of the "I GER" over any other perfority of the "-I offic" over any other machine. Now the question is, how being will this state of affairs last? How long will this state of affairs last? How long will the other companies be able to keep offices open in the differ net cities and towns when they are selling so few machines? Persons who thinked buying or exchanging old ones (of whatever kind) are invited to consult their interest by getting a reliable machine. Irom the eld and reliable slager Manufacturing Company.

In the Tilton-Beecher case Wed nesday, Judge Porter continued and ncluded his argument for the deense. After he had taken his seat the foreman of the jury stated that one of the jurors was too ill to attend an afternoon session, whereupon the Judge ordered that the Court be adjourned until this morning. In the concluding portions of his address Judge Porter dwelt at some length pon the testimony of Mrs. Moulton. He was somewhat less caustic in his reatment of her than of others of he plaintiff's witnesses, as he was rilling to exercise, he said, a forearance which was due to her sex, hat her poisoned words against her oastor were poisoned by her husband ot by herself. He was disposed to admit that there might be "a grain of truth in her narrative," but the ajor and more striking parts of it were composed by those whom he characterized as the "two slippery ogues, Tilton and Moulton."

Young Men's Christian Association -History of the Organization. The twentieth annual convention

The twentieth annual convention of the international organization of the Young Men's Christian Association of the United States and British Provinces, which meets in Richmond, Va., Wednesday, promises to be one of the largest representative religious meetings over held in this country. The oldest of these individual associations date back twenty-two or twenty-three years, starting at Boston, Cincinnati, Buffalo and Washington within the same year, without concert, each acting upon the necessity, which was apparent, of some general organization for the safety, reform and improvement of the young men in the cities and large towns.

At the commencement of the war the associations in nearly all the Southern cities were abandoned, while those in the North became merged in their work in the Chris-tian Commission which had its or tian Commission, which had its origin in the Young Men's Christian Association organization.

SINCE THE WAR

the growth of the association, both in numerical strength, wealth and influence, has been remarkable. The individual organizations, only one of which exists in each city and large town, number about one thousand, with an aggregate active membership of more than a hundred thousand, and property in buildings erected or in progress amounting in value to several millions in the North. The revival in the South has been slow, and like all religious organiza-tion accompanied with much jealou-sy on the part of the brethren against any union with those in the North. In the last two or three years from ten to fifteen Southern cities have been represented in the annual gen-eral conventions. The tour of Messrs. Hall and Cree, of the Washington Association, during the last winter and spring, however, was almost magical in its effects in this respect. Associations have been organized and grown strong in almost every Southern city and large town, and from fifty to one hundred localities will probably send representatives to the Richmond Convention.

THE INFLUENCE THESE ORGANIZA-TIONS have already exerted and are exerting upon the religious world can hardly be estimated. The Protestant denominations are indebted to the efforts of these young men more than to any other human agency for the marked change which has occurred in bringing them nearer together, softening their asperities toward each other, and uniting them as one great body of Christians working for a common cause. The aggressive, practical, intense activity of these oung men. too, bids fair to materially modify the long-prevailing methods of preaching and religious work through the churches. Moody and Sankey received their training in the Chicago Young Men's Chrisyears its general secretary. Thane, Miller, Major Whittle, Bliss, Drane, Roland, Hall, McBurney and many others, of whom the Christian public has heard so much within the last tian Association the former for many year or two, received their education for the work in which they are now engaged in the Young Men's Chris-tian Association, and most of them still retain their positions as GENERAL SECRETARIES.

It is the custom of these general secretaries to meet a few days prior to the international annual convention, to compare notes as to the pro-gress of the work of the preceding year and lay out that for the next. They constitute what may be des-cribed as the power behind the throne, Their meetings are not public, and attract but little general attention, but the results in virtually determining what is to be the character of the movements for the year to come are more important tenfold than those of the convention itself. The secretaries' meeting for this year occurs in this city, commen-cing, it is understood, to-day, and continuing until Tuesday night. These brethren, numbering nearly a hundred, are the guests of the Washington Association, and are to hold two or three public meetings on the coming Sabbath .- National Republican 22d.

Burning of a French Catholic Church —Terrible Loss of Life Resulting Therefrom.

Springfield, Mass., May 28.— The French Catholic church at South The French Catholic church at South Holyoke has been burned. The candle on the altars fired the drapery. Most of those in the body of the church escaped. Those in the gallery mostly perished. The services had nearly closed, and vespers were being sung. There was but one exit from the gallery which extended around the building. There were seven hundred worshippers present, seventy-five of whom perished. The efforts of the people to get into the efforts of the people to get into the church and rescue their friends in-creased the confusion and added to the disaster. Personal violence had to be used in several instances to keep the women from rushing into the flames to save their children. The church was established seven years ago. The Parish includes all the French Catholics in the vicinity, umbering 2,500.

The church was built in 1870 was one hundred by sixty feet, two sto-nes high, and entirely of pine. The galleries on the sides and North end were about twenty-five feet wide. There were two doors in the North end and a vestibule from which two doors opened in the body of the church. The galleries opened into the vestibule. At the rear end was another door by which a few persons escaped. Immediately upon the breaking out of the flames all the occupants of the galleries rushed to the East door and crowded it so that they fell upon one another and choked up the doorway so with their bodies piled in all the ways seven or eight feet deep, where most of the lives were lost. From this mass Chief Mullen rescued one young woman after taking off two dead bodies from above her. It was almost im-possible to face the flames, and Chief Mullen and others had their clothes almost burned from them, and were badly burned themselves about In the rear of the church was the Priest's residence, which was also destroyed. The walls were pulled down after the fire was nearly put out. One woman jumped from the highest window down upon the front steps, breaking an arm, but she is not known to have been otherwise injured. A man with two children in his arms jumped from the window and escaped. One poor woman, enveloped in flames, shricked out "for God's sake, save me!" and she was dragged out by John Lynch.

The latest dispatch to the Republican from Holyoke says 'tis not quite certain that all the ladies have been taken from the ruins. In the haste to get as many as possible from the building before it fell, many were taken out a short distance, and it is possible that a few more may be ta-ken from the debris,
